THE HOME PAPER

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

It looks like the Open Season on lost trans-Atlantic flyers has started.

We would suggest that these pilots who insist on attempts to span the Atlantic, take a course across the ocean which is more easily "searched" than they have been doing. Its much easier to look for a lost pilot along the well established steamer lanes than up Iceland way.

They tell me they are just making "dirt fly" out on College Avenue and that the first thing you know that street will be all cemented up. That's the old fight!

Nice little shower last night and a nice cool morning this morning. Every little shower now helps the corn and the corn helps the farmer and the farmer helps prosperity—if he has a lot of corn.

It is a hard matter for me to "lay off" that Court House sidewalk stuff, but I am not going to say a word about it only that I had a mighty good suggestion from Dr. W. A. Moser, of Grant's Pass, Oregon, regarding it a few days ago. Doc, who is one of the rare specimens who wants the walks retained, suggested that by tunneling under them we might be able to gain a lot of parking space and at the same time conserve the sidewalks. Dr. Moser's attitude in the matter probably is influenced by his residence in Oregon, where giant mountain peaks surround his picturesque town. The sidewalks of the court house probably remind him of the mountain crags and cause him to want them left as is.

An elephant got on a rampage out in Idaho a few days ago and had to be killed. We wonder if it was any relation to the Indiana Republican elephant, which has been on a rampage for the past several years. Probably it is and its death probably is a forerunner of a similar end to the Indiana Elephant, a killing of which is scheduled for—Oh, ho hum—about November.

Only 126 more days until Christmas. Do your shopping early and wrap your packages well.

Well, if it had not been for Governor Ed. Jackson I probably would have gone through life with a guilty conscience, for once, when I was a boy, I sneaked into a farmer's watermelon patch and stole a watermelon. My guilt has caused me many restless nights and unhappy days, but now I can unburden myself and admit my wrong without fear of punishment, thanks to that old statute of limitation, which the Governor taught me how to use.

Compromise may be cowardly, but it's better than driving head-on and wrecking yourself against a stone wall.

Al Smith allowed himself to be photographed in a bathing suit one hot day recently. This is another proof of his superior courage. He is over fifty and when a man is over fifty he is not at his best in a bathing suit. The consequence of this is that all the men who feel they do not look their best in bathing suits are now out rooting for Smith, whom they regard as a hero. There are about 9,850,000 of these men.

Hoover has been repeatedly challenged by Democratic leaders to be photographed in a bathing suit, but he hedged on the proposition. He finally agreed to pose and chose a very cloudy day. The photographers suspected nothing but just in the nick of time a Democrat who was lurking nearby in a clump of fake bushes, placed there purposely by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, discovered that it was not Hoover at all who was posing but John Gilbert, the movie star, whom the Hoover people had hired to double for the Republican nominee. John Gilbert has a very slim waist. The plan was to paste Hoover's head on photographs of the Gilbert body. I tell you this just to give you an idea of how far a Republican will go to get into the White House.

D. C. STEPHENSON IS BALKED AGAIN

PLANE DIVES 5,500 FEET;
WOMAN REGAINS HEARING

MARION, Ind., Aug. 20.—Miss Clara Barrick of Summitville regained her hearing yesterday when the plane she was in, piloted by Freddie Lund, chief test pilot of the Waco Corporation of Troy, O., dived 5,500 feet. The plane was taken to an altitude of 7,000 feet and the nose pointed towards the ground with the motor wide open. Local surgeons said that the sudden change from low to high atmospheric pressure was the cause of the woman regaining her hearing.

SMITH MAKES BITTER REPLY TO CHARGES

NEW YORK GOVERNOR SAYS THAT WILLIAM WHITE AND REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE PURSUED
COWARDLY COURSE

ISSUES FORMAL STATEMENT

Does Not Propose to Have Presidential Campaign Issues Befogged
by Irrelevant
Things

By RAYMOND I. BORST
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Convinced that he has completely shattered William Allen White's charges that he is morally unfit to be the President of the United States, Governor Al Smith today anxiously looked forward to his notification ceremony set for 7 o'clock tomorrow night, when he will formally launch his campaign for the presidency.

Declaring that his record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secured," the Democratic nominee, in a formal statement, charged that White and the Republican national committee had pursued a "cowardly" course in attempting to picture him as a friend of the saloon, gambling and prostitution.

While the Governor did not mention Dr. John Roach Straton by name, he told friends that his reply to White also could be taken as an answer to the New York City clergyman's charge that he was the "deadliest foe in America today to moral progress." In answering White the nominee served notice on his moral critics as well as his Republican opponents that he did not propose to have the issues of the coming campaign befogged by a discussion of how he voted on legislation when he was a member of state assembly twenty years ago.

"I am glad to have this matter taken out of the whisper stage and put into the open; once and for all I shall meet it now," the Governor declared. "I regard it as purely political and when the campaign begins, I do not propose to have the issues of that campaign befogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago."

White charged that Smith, when a member of the legislature always voted to protect the saloon, gambling and vice. Before he sailed for Europe recently the Kansas editor retracted that part of his charge relating to gambling and vice. Subsequently, however, through Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican National committee, he withdrew the retraction about gambling and prostitution.

"My record as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure," Smith wrote in reply to White. "Publicly and by many letters in my possession the late Rev. Canon John P. Peters, when chairman of the committee of fourteen, the leading Anti-Vice society."

OTT WEBB PUTS IN RADIO FOR SMITH ADDRESS

DEMOCRATS URGED TO HEAR
SPEECH AT 5:30 O'CLOCK WEDNESDAY EVENING—NOTIFICATION PROGRAM TO START AT THAT TIME

Greencastle and Putnam County Democrats are cordially invited to hear via radio in the assembly room of the Court House, the ceremonies in connection with the notification of Governor Al Smith of New York that he is the Democratic Party's nominee for president, to take place at Albany, N. Y., Wednesday evening. The ceremonies will start at 5:30 o'clock Greencastle time, and will probably last some while thus giving later arrivals an opportunity to hear part of the program.

The radio is being installed under the auspices of Otto G. Webb, Democratic county chairman, who extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the radio meeting. Governor Smith has a wonderful personality and will discuss all the major issues of the campaign in a thorough manner.

His speech in relation to prohibition, which is becoming one of the biggest national issues, alone, should bring out a big radio audience.

RELEASE OF FARM INMATES BEING PROBED

ONE OF FIVE PRISONERS RETURNED TO INSTITUTION TO COMPLETE TERM—RECORDS ALTERED TO ALLOW SHORTER TERMS

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—(INS)—An investigation by the State Board of Charities and Supt. Ralph Howard of the alleged altered records in the offices at the State Farm which enabled a number of prisoners to gain their release before the expiration of their terms, was continued today.

The investigation so far has shown that at least six prisoners gained their release last month in this manner.

It is also reported that the investigators have found that those released had paid hundreds of dollars to gain their freedom ahead of time.

According to John A. Brown, head of the Board, one of the prisoners has been apprehended and returned to the Farm.

Officials of the state farm at Putnamville and members of the board of state charities have begun an investigation to determine how five prisoners gained their freedom from the farm before the expiration of their sentences. One of the number already has been returned to the farm, Ralph Howard, superintendent, asserted.

Alteration of office records to make it appear that certain prisoners received shorter sentences than they actually received was said by Mr. Howard to have caused the early releases. He denied a report, however, that any civilian employe at the farm was under suspicion of having

SUPREME COURT ISSUES A WRIT OF PROHIBITION

BLOCKS CONTEMPLATED ACTION
IN THE LAPORTE CIRCUIT
COURT ON APPLICATION
FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

COURT WITHOUT JURISDICTION

Writ Based on Action Of High Court
July 20 In Denying Life-Term
Prisoner Habeas Corpus Action

LAPORTE, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Judge John C. Richter of the Laporte Circuit court this afternoon indicated he would wage a vigorous legal fight to prevent the Indiana Supreme Court from denying him authority to adjudicate the habeas corpus petition of D. C. Stephenson.

Chief Justice David A. Myers has issued a temporary writ enjoining Judge Richter from enforcing a habeas corpus writ granted Stephenson yesterday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 21.—(INS)—The Indiana Supreme Court has issued a writ of prohibition restraining John Richter, judge of the Laporte Circuit court from enforcing a writ of habeas corpus sought by D. C. Stephenson to gain his freedom from the state prison where he is serving a life term for the Madge Oberholzer murder, it was learned here today.

The writ of prohibition was issued by Judge David A. Myers, chief justice of the state supreme court, on the application of Walter Daly, warden of the state prison, who was named on the defendant in Stephenson's latest legal effort to secure admission to bail or absolute discharge.

Justice Myers further commanded Judge Richter to appear before the Indiana Supreme Court at 10 a. m. September 4 and show cause why the writ of prohibition should not be made permanent.

The action of the supreme court prevented contemplated action in the Laporte circuit court today on Stephenson's application.

The writ of prohibition was issued late last night and William Reasoner, sheriff of the supreme court, left at once for Laporte to serve the writ on Judge Richter.

Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom who presented the application for the writ of application on relation of Warden Daly asked that the writ be granted on the ground that on July 20 the supreme court in denying Stephenson's appeal for a rehearing from the Laporte superior court's refusal to grant him a writ of habeas corpus had given a final decision in Stephenson's habeas corpus action based on alleged lack of jurisdiction of the Hamilton Circuit Court which sentenced Stephenson to life imprisonment.

Because the state supreme court already had made a final decision in this case Attorney General Gilliom argued that the Laporte circuit court was entirely without jurisdiction in the latest Stephenson habeas corpus petition.

The petition for the writ of prohibition set forth that Judge Richter at once caused to be issued a writ of habeas corpus commanding Warden Daly to produce Stephenson in the Laporte circuit court when Stephenson's application for such a writ was presented to him.

"Unless prohibited the said judge will proceed to try the said case," Warden Daly related.

SYNOPSIS

Rose Shannon, beautiful cabaret dancer, becomes innocently involved in the mysterious theft of $200,000 from the Mercer National Bank. The Professor, leader of a gang of crooks, believing that she knows where the money is, corners her in a lonely cottage. She is saved by Chuck White, a member of the gang with whom she is in love. Escaping to the station, she overhears the gang plotting to kill Chuck for double-crossing them. She sets out to warn him, but collapses and is taken to the hospital. The police, learning of her whereabouts, are hot-foot on her trail.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

He withdrew into his shell again and seemingly remained in a coma until the cab drew up before the hospital door. Both men got out, paid their fare, and entered, inquiring for the girl who had been brought in that morning. A white coated internist showed them up to the long ward where two rows of white beds allowed a passageway down the center of the room. The internist halted before one of the cots.

"That's the girl you're looking for," he informed the officers.

"Was you on duty when she was brought in?" Cowles asked the youthful doctor.

"Yes, I was here," he informed them. "You're from Central Sta-

"How soon do you think this girl will be able to leave?"

"He looked at the two men questioningly.

The detectives turned back their coat lapels, revealing the badges on their vests.

"She came in about four this morning," the doctor continued, after surveying the shiny emblems. "It's just a case of hysteria, brought on by some shock and exposure. Some farmer dropped her here. He said that he had found her on the roadside on his way in to market."

Cowles nodded his head and walked around the side of the bed and looked down at the girl. She was tossing fitfully from side to side, mumbling now and then incoherently. Her face was a pale, deathly white and even in her enforced sleep, shadows of pain and fright flitted across the delicate features, causing her mouth to twist into pitiful, thin lines.

"We got her quieted down," the doctor began. "She came to while we were bringing her in, and began raving something about a professor and some money. She's evidently had a pretty bad scare. She kept calling for some one by the name of Chuck. I couldn't make out very much else."

Cowles nodded and bent his head to try to catch some of the muttered words that Rose kept repeating. She was fingering her arms about restlessly. Her eyelids fluttered; her lips trembled; her words were short, staccato, rambling, quite unrelated to each other.

"Chuck, Chuck," she was gasping. ".....love you..... Suddenly she sat up. 'No, no, you mustn't, you mustn't!..... going..... kill Chuck.....' she cried. 'Antique shop..... professor.....let me go! Let me go!' Her words sounded strange and somewhat like a speech from an old-fashioned melodrama to the young doctor, but to Simpson and Cowles they held portentous meaning.

"Looks as though she's got an idea they're after Chuck White," Cowles leaned close to Simpson and spoke low in the other's ear. "She's evidently pretty well mixed up with this gang."

"Say, I wonder if the gang's back

THE THEATERS

Thanks for the Buggy Ride

Laura La Plante Comedy a Hit

One of those gay, liting comedies as refreshing as the popular song it is named after, is "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," the new arrival to the screen of the Vancastle Theatre.

The picture is effervescent and moves rapidly from start to finish, leaving the audience with the wish that there had been a couple more reels to the show. Yet it is the regular length.

"Thanks for the Buggy Ride," combines splendid human comedy with a heart-moving love story of struggling youth on the Great White Way.

Miss La Plante has scored another personal triumph, in an excellent successor to "The Cat and the Canary" and "Silk Stockings," and is given an other good opportunity for the pantomime in which she excels.

In the romantic sequences she is more beautiful than she has ever before appeared on the screen which is a superlative accomplishment for the cameraman because we didn't think it possible.

Glenn Tryon who is a comedy star in his own right, shows that quality of youth and spontaneity which will in a short time, make a matinee idol of him.

The story, itself, is well done, admirably suited for the cast and thoroughly entertaining from fade-in to fade-out.

GRANADA

Dick Barthelmess Returns

In Role He Made Famous

Richard Barthelmess, favorite of local screen fans, comes to the Granada Theatre today in his newest First National Picture, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

This is the picturization of the classic story of the Kentucky Mountaineers by John Fox, Jr. It is an ideal role for Barthelmess, a part much like his famous "Tol'able David," which endeared him to millions of theater goers in all parts of the world.

The story deals with the adventures of a mountain boy, homeless and without family ties. It has many thrilling and dramatic moments, and a sweet love story that grips at the heartstrings. While the period covered by the story includes the Civil War, there are no war scenes in the picture.

Continuation B

ity of New York, repeatedly thanked me for my co-operation with that organization. No one in all of the twenty-five years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican National committee."

Then the Governor trained his guns directly upon the Republican national committee. He said:

"What a cowardly course the Republican national committee pursued. It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau and then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play."

The Governor asserted he was confident that the people of New York approved his legislative record or they would not have elected him four times to the governorship, something that has never been done before in the state's history. He added:

"I cannot, however, let go unchallenged the political attempt to tear down my character and reputation by seeking to align me on the side of opposition to the regulation of the liquor traffic and in favor of gambling and prostitution."

White's charge that Smith's record showed him to be a friend of prostitution drew his sharpest fire. He said this charge was based upon a bill which would have prevented the renting of a hotel room twice in one night. After pointing out that this bill, which he voted against, was first defeated and then later passed for "political expediency" by the Republican legislature, the Governor wrote:

"On this bill and this bill alone, William Allen White would have my wife, my children and my friends believe that in my long public career I was a friend of public prostitution."

After explaining each legislative measure referred to by White, the Governor concluded:

"I denounce as unfair, unmanly and un-American this slanderous attack upon me and my record. I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of my own state who have year after year expressed their confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies. I am sure that I am right when I say it is not concurred in by the fair-minded, intelligent thinking people of the country."

"I have been called by my party to the leadership in a great campaign. I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my state and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters."

In formally accepting the nomination the Governor's confidants predict his views so clearly on every major campaign issue that they cannot be misunderstood or misinterpreted. Prohibition is expected to be one of the high spots in the acceptance speech. The Governor already has said that he will "clearly and unmistakably" express his views on this subject.

The vanguard of 100,000 Democrats, who are expected here for the notification is due in Albany today. The city already is decked out in its holiday clothes while the east steps of the capitol, where the notification meeting will be staged, have been transformed into an open air theatre.

Dying, Noguchi Wrote of Each Fleeting Sensation

Martyred Scientist Left an Amazing Bequest to His Colleagues

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff

NEW YORK.—The last five minutes of a hero's life! You picture a soldier in the smoke of battle, sorely hit but advancing—doggedly. Plunging on to grips with the foe. His heart ticking for the last few times, dying fingers convulsively sending yet another bullet into the ranks of the enemy!

How different the ending of Hideyo Noguchi, martyred Rockefeller Foundation scientist. Dying in his comfortable tent in the festering, insect-ridden jungle near Accra (West Africa), the stolid little Japanese utilized HIS last moments on earth in penning what is described by colleagues as the most amazing document in medical annals.

Noguchi put on paper in the form of notes the minute-by-minute experience of a man DYING of yellow fever, transcribing each fleeting sensation as it came until—finally—even his iron will no longer could transmit strength to his fingers. The scrawled bits of paper were the scientist's last will and testament, bequeathing that which he had discovered in entering the hereafter.

Noguchi is the most recent of a long list of these martyrs to science. Born in Japan, working in the United States, dying on the job in Africa, he symbolizes the international character of modern research. It was he, who, with his Oriental sense for fine values, definitely identified that pale, minute spiral which is the germ of yellow fever. Later he and his associates worked out both a vaccine to prevent the disease and a serum to cure it.

DR. HIDEYO NOGUCHI

Years hence Noguchi will be saving lives of men and women stricken by it; yet, ironically, it was yellow fever which killed him.

So it was with Dr. Jesse M. Lazear, surgeon, U. S. A., who aided Walter Reed in the fight against the disease in Cuba. He permitted a mosquito to bite him to prove his contention that the bite of only that particular species would transmit the fever.

Lazear died. Dr. James Carroll, another army surgeon, let himself be used for the same test and he, too, died. That was in 1907, seven years after Lazear.

Howard B. Cross of the Rockefeller Foundation died of the same scourge which vanquished brave Noguchi, giving his life in an attempt to reduce the toll of disease in pestiferous Vera Cruz. Similarly scores of other gallant investigators—coolly, calmly, unafraid.

The last five minutes of a hero's life! Somehow the picture is different now; Noguchi and his kind have given us a new definition of the word courage.

MURRAY BUTLER DENOUNCES HOOVER'S STAND

MOST WIDELY KNOWN REPUBLICAN OF EMPIRE STATE WILL NOT SUPPORT G. O. P. NOMINEE—DON'T LIKE STANDS ON PROHIBITION AND DISARMAMENT

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and uncompromising foe of prohibition, today declared his vigorous disapproval of Herbert Hoover's stand for enforcement, reaffirming his belief that the Eighteenth Amendment must be wiped out "if the Constitution itself is to be preserved and protected."

Continuing the fight he began more than a year ago to win the Republican party over to the repeal movement, a fight which he carried personally and lone-handed to the floor of the Kansas City convention after encountering overwhelming defeat in the platform committee Butler declared that, "anyone who is opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment must then be in favor of the only alternative, which is the continuance of the present reign of lawlessness, debauchery and government made crime."

Coupled with his denunciation of Hoover's acceptance-speech utterances on the prohibition question, Butler, in an open letter made public at his Southampton, L. I., summer home, also expressed dissent with the Republican nominee's stand on disarmament and world peace.

He assailed Hoover's brief treatment of "the truly remarkable treaty just now being signed by ourselves and all the great powers of the earth pledging renunciation of war." He denounced as false doctrine, overturned by the whole trend of history since the world war, Hoover's statement that "adequate preparedness for defense" is a factor contributing to the maintenance of peace.

A life-long Republican, and long interested, as president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, in the world movement for disarmament, Butler was himself a presidential candidate before the Chicago convention in 1920. His break with Hoover withdraws from the national ticket in the pivotal New York campaign the support of one of the most widely known Republicans in the Empire state.

Butler expressed the view that "literally millions of earnest Republicans throughout the country" are in full agreement with him.

"It is quite obvious that Mr. Hoover has no conception of the real problem by which the country is faced and which has been under eager de-

What Mr. Hoover said in his speech of acceptance:

Prohibition
"I recently stated my position upon the Eighteenth Amendment, which I again repeat:

"I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Whoever is chosen President has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course.

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively."

Armaments
"There are two co-operating factors in the maintenance of peace—the building of goodwill by wise and sympathetic handling of international relations, and the adequate preparedness for defense. We must not only be just; we must be respected. The experiences of the war afford final proof that we cannot isolate ourselves from the world, that the safeguarding of peace cannot be attained by negative action."

bate for some five years," Butler said relative to prohibition. "That problem has to do with liquor, not with social experiments, good, bad or indifferent, but with the structure and functions of the government of United States.

"The amendment is an alien, an unauthorized invader of the Constitution and must be deported by the people if the Constitution itself is to be protected and preserved.

"Mr. Hoover is opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and at this point his troubles begin.
